NEXT MEETING: Virtual Meeting: Thursday, February 3—7:00 PM
Zdeno Mayercak: “My Journey - Five Decades of Wood Carving”

Message from the President, Patrick Sieg

Dear Rockville Art League Artists,

We are coming to the end of another crazy and bewildering year.

It is interesting to see the end-of-year summaries of the year’s significant happenings, the momentous events and milestones. These retrospectives often take the form of “a year in pictures” and the recent offerings detail nothing less than “topsy-turvy.”

When we kicked off 2021, vaccines promised an end to the pandemic that had haunted the world for a year and a change in our federal government that could return us to a long-awaited semblance of public order and civility. Yet here we are in December of 2021, still wearing masks, still unsettled by daily news articles and still waiting for that elusive meaningful change.

We are bludgeoned by drama of our times ... it can be a scary scenario.

But please take a closer look and if we dig a bit deeper, we can see resilience, dramatic achievements and in some cases unanticipated, unfathomable beauty. Personally, I feel optimistic about our future, and I can feel positivity, percolating.

“Optimism is the faith that leads to achievement. Nothing can be done without hope and confidence.” – Helen Keller

As artists we can use our creativity and unique vision to make a real difference in our world and our times. We can find beauty where others may not even think to look, and we can and will share that beauty through our work.

Personally, I try not to focus on things I cannot control. Like many in our league, I put energy into what I might create.

The Rockville Art League has been able to host exceptional exhibits this year both virtually and in person at the Glenview Art Gallery.

I am in awe of the quality of the work on display in this year’s winter juried show and it is breathtaking and lovely.

Special thanks to Lisa Sieg for curating the show and to judge Christine Lashley for making the difficult jury choices and selecting our award winners.

Of course, all the members that took a chance at entering a juried show deserve the most credit for its success. See more about our show later in the newsletter and please do yourself a favor and come to the gallery to see our show in person.

There was real energy in our opening “meet-the-artists” event on Sunday, December 15, 2021, and a sincere thank you to all who attended.

Speaking of shows, we’re working with the City of Rockville on a special March - April 2022, exhibit. It will be titled “Lost, Found and Looking Forward” and will focus on our resilience to the pandemic and hope for the future. This themed exhibit be both virtual and in person at Glenview.

It will complement the premier of a new orchestral work at the Fitzgerald Theater created by an international composer for the Rockville Concert Band.

More on this later in the newsletter and in coming weeks.

Finally, my sincere thanks to our Rockville Art League board and members who work to make our group successful.

Special thanks to...

- Susan Dunnell for crafting our newsletter month after month.
- Rob Gale for looking after our finances.
- Michael Auger for maintaining our website and tackling things technical.
- Lisa Sieg for organizing, curating and caring deeply about our exhibits and for staying on top of (and growing) our social media presence.
- Sarah Sohraby and Richard Fisher who are helping with our upcoming speakers.
- Dave Allen and Cathy McDermott for being willing to pitch in.
- Those members willing to assist with our juried shows...accepting work, hanging and labeling and promoting our shows
- And most importantly, all our members who love art, and create and share their efforts.

I am looking forward to being a part of the Rockville Art League in 2022 and much value the joy associating with such wonderful artists and people brings to me and others.

Sincerely,
Patrick Sieg
President

December 5 - January 14: Rockville Art League Juried Members’ Winter Show
Glenview Mansion

The reviews are in! Rockville Art League’s Juried Members’ Winter Show is one amazing show! We thank Christine Lashley for jurying such a beautiful show for us. And we thank our artists for creating such beautiful work.

Thank you to everyone who came out for the “Meet the Artists” Opening on Dec. 5. It was great to see so many of you after such a long hiatus and how we loved the excitement of an art opening.

If you couldn’t join us, please be sure to come see the show in person during the week. It’s quite a pleasant experience to view the work in all six rooms of the art gallery. There’s plenty of parking and it is uncrowded. Please continue to invite your friends, family, neighbors, etc., to come see it.

Glenview is open Monday-Friday, 9:00am-4:30pm. The show is up through Friday, January 14. A reminder to those with work in the show, that you or your designee much pick up of artwork on Tuesday, January 18, 10:00am-1:00pm.

Congratulations to our awards winners and all our artists with work in the show. Please be sure to watch the recorded zoom of the awards walk-through with Christine Lashley sent out to members on Dec. 10.

Art is best viewed in person but please do share the virtual version of this show with your community. It is easily found on our website by clicking on “Explore the Exhibit.”

Christine Lashley’s judge’s remarks:

Thank you, Rockville Art League, for inviting me to jury your exhibition. I enjoyed seeing the diversity of work (and media) presented by the members, and the visual voice that carried through when an artist submitted multiple entries.

I judged this show in several ways. First, I glanced at all the work to see what struck me for visual impact. Secondly, I spent more time on each image looking at: design, value, color, the balance of unity/variety, and the presentation of the ‘big idea’ or cohesion of a concept. Thirdly, I judged the same entries of each artist against the other. Very few artists have two pieces in the show, most artists have only one. Several hours over several days were spent judging this show. Some work stood out from the beginning, others that attracted me at first glance did not hold as much power with subsequent viewings. As I write this many weeks later, I can still pull up in my mind the award winners’ dynamic images. This shows the potential power of a visual on the human brain that we all hope to achieve.

Successful art is born from a strong personal viewpoint. Congratulations to all who submitted art, as it takes courage to submit your art to a juried event. Awards and rejection are part of this process, and this is never an easy task for the judge or the participating artists.

Rockville Art League and the City of Rockville will be hosting an art show: Lost, Found, and Looking Forward March 2022

The Rockville Art League and the City of Rockville will be hosting an art exhibit to complement a premiere performance by the Rockville Concert Band at the F. Scott Fitzgerald Theatre of an original commissioned concert piece created by world-renowned composer Johan de Meij to honor those lost to COVID and offer a breath of hope as we head to the future.

The theme of this art exhibit Lost, Found, and Looking Forward is the pandemic and the hope for the aftermath. We are looking for artwork that would capture an element of the unique times of March 2020 until now, and as we look ahead: what we Lost, what we Found and our hope as we are Looking Forward.

From the lockdown to loss, from isolation to resilience, discovery, solace, appreciation for one another and nature, and moving forward towards brighter days ahead. We look forward to your creations and your interpretations of this concept.

The work may be newly created but you may also submit a piece you have created during the pandemic (or earlier) * in the following mediums:

- oils/acrylics
- watercolors
- drawings, pastels, hand-pulled prints
- mixed media, collage, experimental
- photography
- sculpture

*It also may have been exhibited in a prior show.

Details will be sent out early January with exact dates, etc.

Briefly, members in good standing will be allowed to submit up to 3 pieces of art for consideration for an in person and online show to be exhibited in March 2022 at Glenview. All 2-D pieces will need to be wired securely for hanging with the maximum measurement of any framed side of 48 inches. Questions? Please contact Lisa Sieg.

Prizes of recognition will be awarded by the City of Rockville. There will be an opportunity for the prize-winning work to be displayed the afternoon of the premiere at the Theatre and the entire art show will be exhibited shortly thereafter at Glenview Mansion. Additionally, the virtual show will be shown on the RAL website as well as the City of Rockville's.

Start the New Year with New Connections

I recently met for the first time with a new critique group I found through Critique Seek. Although each member of my group focuses on different subject matter and media, we are able to exchange constructive, helpful feedback and support one another. This group has expanded my artist community and my horizons, and I wish the same for you in the New Year.

To learn more about Critique Seek, check out the article in the June newsletter at http://rockvilleartleague.org/newsletters/newsletter_30_10.pdf or email me at Critiques@RockvilleArtLeague.org.

To sign up, email me at Critiques@RockvilleArtLeague.org and I'll send you a short form to complete. Once you submit your answers, they will be compiled into our list, which you will receive within several days. Check out the list to find one or more members, contact them, and you're on your way.

I hope you will consider exploring this opportunity to connect with fellow RAL artists. I look forward to hearing from you!
