NEXT MEETING: Virtual Meeting: Thursday, April 7 —7:00 PM
Sharon Carol Demery: “Impressionism into Fauvism”

Message from the President, Patrick Sieg

Dear Rockville Art League Artists,

The newest exhibit at the Glenview Mansion Art Gallery, “Lost, Found and Looking Forward,” is a beautiful show. This show is in collaboration with the City of Rockville and many thanks to Betty Wisda, Arts Programs Supervisor with Rockville, for her support of this show.

Please make time to see it and bring your friends, you will be glad you did.

The art gallery is freshly painted, and the renewed walls complement the fantastic artwork.

Lisa and I attended the Rockville Concert Band concert that was a tie in with this show.

We were able to display eight paintings from our exhibit (the prize winners) in the lobby of the Fitzgerald Theatre and we heard many positive comments from concert attendees.

It was gratifying to be out and about again even if things are moving forward cautiously. Many masks were thankfully being worn and there was only limited seating (about half the theater’s capacity) and there was a tangible sense that we were headed back to normal.

Musicians and visual artists have a lot in common...accomplished after devoting much time and effort to our craft. We, individual artists, shine brighter in a group setting, like a concert band or in our league’s case, a group exhibition.

Many thanks to the artists that contributed their art to this show and your response was so encouraging and inspiring. The gallery is filled with heartfelt impressions, both good and not so good of the last two, pandemic years.

And as we gain positive ground towards recovering from COVID restrictions the world is shaken by new horrors.

Sunflowers are the national flower of Ukraine, and I was motivated to paint them in a new composition. I am certainly not alone in attempting such creations. In addition to being beautiful, artistic renditions of sunflowers remind us of warm days and much light.

With the war raging, sunflowers can also remind us of the proud Ukrainian people and their struggle.

Later in this newsletter please note the fund raiser being sponsored by Dr. Irina Stotland to support the victims of the war in Ukraine.

Dr. Stotland has presented to our group for the last five years in our September RAL meetings.

I plan to contribute to one of the fully vetted charities she lists and look forward to the art talk she is offering as a thank you. I hope you will all consider contributing as well.

Our call for entry is up and running for our 2022 Juried Members Spring Show. Details are later in the newsletter, and I am looking forward to many submissions of beautiful art. Please keep the submission deadline in mind as I would hate for you to miss it.

I hope many of you were able to view Ben Carter's talk with our league. I am happy to now know more about pottery and ceramics and what an important artistic medium it is...now and throughout history.

Our next speaker will be west coast artist Sharon Carol Demery and she will share how she moves her art from Impressionism to Fauvism. I know this will be a colorful conversation.

Our league relies on the generosity of our members and the support of member volunteers. Sarah Sohraby and Richard Fisher are new board members and they have taken the lead on securing speakers for our group. Jennifer Lubell and David Allen helped Lisa hang the "Lost Found and Looking Forward" exhibit and Sarah Sohraby with the show's art delivery. And again, Lisa Sieg has done a fantastic job organizing this show and curating the art in the gallery. Without their help this show would not have happened.

Thank you for being members of our art league and I look forward to seeing more of your work soon.

Sincerely,
Patrick Sieg
President, The Rockville Art League

2022 Speaker Series:

7pm on Zoom (Zoom invitation will be sent out to members a few days before each speaker).

Please join us on Thursday, April 7 on Zoom as we welcome:

Sharon Carol Demery "Impressionism into Fauvism"

"Claude Monet, Mary Cassatt, Henri Matisse. These great masters took painting to fascinating new levels. I will talk about these ground-breaking artists and their painting styles. The demo will show the impressionist techniques of painting and move on to the Fauve techniques style of painting. Bright colors and simplified compositions, loose style of painting with strong brushwork, keeping images simple and without details. Take notes or paint along with me!"
~Sharon Carol Demery

Sharon Carol Demery moved from the San Francisco Bay area to Los Angeles where she studied, painted, and began her career. There she developed her modern art with an affinity for vibrant color, purity and simplicity depicting images of abstraction that retain their cohesiveness. She was associated with the 1970's Abstract Illusionism movement. Primarily considered an abstract painter, her artistic facility and mixed-genre style elude classification as she works in both abstraction and representational painting. She has shown her work in galleries and museums around the country and is also in many private and public collections. As an award-winning artist, it has been reviewed in numerous publications, including Art Magazine, and The New York Review.

Sharon taught painting at Arizona Western College in Yuma, AZ, from 1979 to 1981 after which she moved to San Diego where she attended UCSD and received the Professional Certificate in Art and the Creative Process. She attended Platt College and received a diploma in Graphic Design. She also studied human development at San Diego City College. For the past ten years she has been teaching at the Athenaeum Music & Arts Library in their School of the Arts program. She has been influenced by her many travels on three continents and by the great works of masters like Van Gogh, Cezanne, Monet, Matisse, Bonnard, Kandinsky, O'Keefe, Krasner, Joan Mitchell, Thiebaud, and Diebenkorn. "Painting for me is about discovery, growth, and human emotions. My goal is to continue studying the masters old and new to continue my journey in painting."

LOST, FOUND AND LOOKING FORWARD
MARCH 20 – MAY 6

The City of Rockville and the Rockville Art League are proud to present an art exhibit to complement the premiere performance by the Rockville Concert Band at the F. Scott Fitzgerald Theatre on March 13 of an original commissioned concert piece created by world-renowned composer Johan de Meij to honor those lost to COVID and offer a breath of hope as we head to the future.

The theme of this art exhibit, “Lost, Found, and Looking Forward,” is the pandemic and the hope for the aftermath. The pieces in this show capture an element of the unique times of March 2020 until now, and as we look ahead: what we Lost, what we Found and our hope as we are Looking Forward.

Please join us on Sunday, March 20, 1:30-3:30pm at Glenview Mansion to Meet the Artists at the Opening. Prize winners will be recognized at 1:45pm.

We are honored to have Therese Capal assign prizes of recognition and we thank her for all her work on this show. Her remarks about this noteworthy show follow.

I am honored to judge the submissions to Rockville Art League’s latest show, which is a look back at our experiences over the past two years and our hopes for what comes next as we wait for a return to life as we remember it. This period of time has inspired a wide range of emotions: fear, loneliness, sickness, frustration, hope. The inspiring works submitted express a unique artistic view of the thoughts and processes found inside us all during this unusual time.

As I viewed all the entries, I was not surprised to see that the subject matter was as widely varied as the range of emotions felt by so many of us. There were so many beautifully executed pieces that narrowing down the selections has been extremely difficult. I tried to choose pieces that were skillfully rendered yet went beyond by suggesting inner thoughts and ideas.

1st Place: Solace by Karen Lantner
A deceptively simple image. Skillfully painted folds of cloth with shadows and elegantly rendered tassels laying over an open book. A simple outstanding still life at first glance. More is added to this picture at closer look. The colors and tassels reveal a prayer shawl. The book could be a bible, or other words of inspiration. This image evokes powerful emotion. Not only is it a beautiful painting, it also offers the message that so many of us turned to our faith to offer strength and guidance.

2nd Place: Fam by Cynthia Rivarde

This grouping painted with confident loose strokes speaks to the small circle of immediate family many of us have been living with during the height of the pandemic. The love and appreciation of our small groups shines through in the eyes of these three people and the slight smile of the young woman on the left. We have held our loved ones close during this time. The three apparently peaceful figures hold hidden depths.

3rd Place: Remembrance by Barbara Bell

A beautiful watercolor which at first glance could be read as simply a lovely floral painting. However, there is so much more to this work. Vibrant tones in the background create a base for a branch with flowers and leaves that have lost much of their color in the center foreground. This center branch appears to be fading away, dying. The image brings sadness and reminds us of time, memories and friends or family we have lost.

Honorable mention:

Carousel, Masks Required by David Allen
Moving Through Uncertain Light by Chris Luckman

Zoom Fatigue by Linda Sherman
Enough Streaming Already by Myra Ryan
My Pandemic Horizon by Stacy Yochum

I thoroughly enjoyed viewing the pieces submitted to this show. The exciting submissions once again renew my admiration for the talent found here in Rockville. Thank you to Rockville Art League for allowing me to present my choices.

Jennifer Howard and Kathleen Byrnes are both Plein Air painters working in oils. As colorists and expressionists their work is strong and emphasizes mark making and bold shapes in their landscapes. While still representing recognizable local scenes of the Washington Metro area and beyond, the intent is to create a mood or capture a moment through their skilled use of color and share it with the viewer. Both artists have honed their work with a full grasp of drawing and composition, yet each has a distinguished style. Color & Light will open up your idea of what Landscapes can be.
