Message from the President, Patrick Sieg

Dear Rockville Art League artists,

We were fortunate to have artist and actor Teresa Jade Jarzynski's present to our group recently. After sharing a bit about her life and showing us some of her work, she jumped into a discussion of vision boards and how that may help artists gain clarity and a path forward in their art practice. Her talk was fun and energizing (her energy was contagious) and it made me think... Why do artists create? To me, this question is essential to Teresa's first step in creating a vision board, namely the articulation of "intention."

Artists create art for a variety of reasons. For me, art is an opportunity to communicate ideas, to express emotions, to capture a moment in time, to tell a story, and, with luck, to share beauty, inspiration and joy. Sometimes artists endeavor to sell, but for me, art is a form of expression and an opportunity to share my vision and talent (after years of focused effort to make such talent real).

We need to express ourselves visually and to meet that need, artists must strive to answer important questions:

- Why do you create?
- What does it accomplish?
- What do you want others to see in your artwork?
- How does it make you feel?

Answering these questions (or at least thinking about them) allows us to discover the purpose and meaning behind our creations.

Artists create to make this world more beautiful. We may even fall in love with our creations because we connect with them emotionally.

Yes, art may express emotion, but it also draws on history, culture and current events...it shows who we are and where we are.

How do you feel about the question, "How long did it take you to make your artwork?"

Viewers often lead with this question and while I'm glad to have their attention, I really don't enjoy answering. I can either try to calculate the hours spent painting, knowing that the number of hours may not reflect the toil spent learning my craft, or I can simply say "it took my entire life."

Please don't ask the artist how long it took to create their artwork. Instead, ask them why they created it. While viewing art, I can only imagine how deeply the artist has thought about their work and the life experiences that were essential to its creation.

I see a blank canvas as an opportunity to create something new, bring something into existence that is both my point of view and is inspired by the work of other artists and the world around me.

When I am creating, I let go of my worries and notice how quickly time passes. Being able to create art is an enormous gift, joy and comfort as I'm sure it is so for our RAL members.

Thank you, Teresa Jade Jarzynski, for a thought-provoking presentation and thank you, members, for reading my ruminations above.

March is going to be an exciting month for our art community...

- Our "Seeing Red" art show (in conjunction with the Rockville Students' Juried Art Show) has been extended through March 20. It is a beautiful exhibition and worth seeing more than once. (Note that our "Meet the Artists" event is on February 22 and the artwork pick up is March 22.)
- On March 5, watercolor and mixed media artist (and educator and RAL member) Alexandra Michaels will speak, and her topic is "Rearranging Parts in Your Composition" and I know I will learn something new and important.
- On March 26, The National Gallery of Art's curator and educator will share an artwork in her talk titled "Let's Look Together." Lorena is an appreciated supporter on the Rockville Art League and has enlightened us with a deep dive into an artwork in a similar session in the past...simply outstanding. Finally, it is so very nice to say goodbye to all the recent snow and ice and with temperatures above freezing, spring must be near.

"No winter lasts forever. No spring skips it turn." Hal Borland

Sincerely,

Patrick Sieg
President
The Rockville Art League

Rockville Art League Speaker Series

Thursday, Feb. 12, 7pm: Artist Teresa Jade Jarzynski

Thank you to everyone who joined in on Feb. 12 for an inspiring evening with artist Teresa Jade Jarzynski as she shared some of her stunning work and discussed common issues faced by artists in their practice and in their life and how a vision board may help them gain clarity and a path forward. A vision board, also known as a dream board, is a collage of images, text and affirmations that represent your plans, hopes and dreams. Through the process of creating a visual reminder of your aspirations, it becomes a motivational tool to clarify, inspire, and keep you aligned with your goals and desires. It's a great way to begin the new year or anytime throughout the year! A BIG THANK YOU to Teresa Jade Jarzynski for an uplifting and energetic presentation.

To find out more about Teresa and to sign up for her newsletter, please visit: <https://www.teresajade.com>

The recorded zoom has been sent out to all members.

Thursday, March 26, 7pm: Dr. Lorena Bradford from the National Gallery of Art on *Let's Look Together

We are delighted to welcome back Dr. Lorena Bradford for an evening of looking at a piece of art together. Members will remember her presentation in the fall of 2024; she also judged the RAL Juried Members' Winter Show that year. Please join us for this bonus presentation!

Overview: Artists understandably think a lot about seeing. What do we see, and how do we see it? How will others see it, and how might we entice them to linger? Let's luxuriate in a long, slow look as we discover a work of art together over the course of an hour. Come with an open mind, fresh eyes, and a sense of curiosity for this interactive conversation facilitated by Lorena Bradford.

Lorena Bradford has a Ph.D. in art history from the University of Delaware. For seventeen years, she developed and oversaw accessible programs and projects in the department of Learning & Engagement at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC. Additionally, she currently works with the Kennedy Center, the Smithsonian, and Scribely on accessible features, including audio description and writing. She has consulted and offered training on best practices for other museums and institutions in Washington, DC, across the nation, and abroad.

On Exhibit: January 25 – March 20

Meet the Artists on Sunday, Feb. 22, 1:30-3:30pm. Awards will begin at 2PM. Everyone is welcome.

Colorful, beautiful, emotional. No other color can grab your attention and evoke such emotion or add so much energy to anything and everything. For many centuries red was THE color and, in some languages, it was the word for color, then it fell from grace and was considered indecent and decadent, the color of luxury and excess. It's passionate, edgy, dangerous, symbolic of so much – love and romance, anger and aggression, power and courage, good fortune and happiness. Beloved in fashion and design for its glamor and ability to elevate the ordinary. A touch, a shade or a jolt of red can instantly energize an artwork. Red has commanded the attention of artists and their audiences throughout history.

This winter the Rockville Art League is proud to present this themed show of this dynamic color at Glenview Mansion Art Gallery. We are honored to have Erin Raedeke judge the work in the show. This show is sponsored by the City of Rockville. This show will be on display with the Rockville Student Juried Show 2026.

Participating artists: the pick-up date for artwork is MONDAY, March 23, 9:30-11:30pm. PLEASE note the new time on your calendar.

Rivers in the Sky, an exhibit of artwork by Mauricio Athié, is a metaphor for the flow of light in space, as well as the circulation of water in the atmosphere. This exhibition is a journey through the ages, from the imagery of the Milky Way by the ancient peoples, to how we see the cosmos today. It is inspired by vast horizons, infinite space, angry skies, and the sense of awe produced by the natural world, both within the Earth's surroundings and beyond. For the night sky, Maurice favors printmaking, both relief and intaglio, while diurnal visions are represented through painting and photography. Whenever possible, he uses non-toxic and environmentally friendly techniques and materials. He embraces the influence of both ancient and contemporary art, particularly from Mexico, his homeland, and marvel at the current understanding of space-time. Please see below the link to the exhibition catalog, <https://drive.google.com/file/d/1DBmvkNCdRkE9zLLIfWcQsRsuw3eyze48/view?usp=sharing>

Maurice's work has evolved over the years with long gaps for travel in his work as environmental scientist. The life experiences he has gathered through his professional life, and his keen observation of nature, inform his art. Following his retirement in 2015, he started a new career as an artist. To develop his skills, he studied art at Montgomery College in Maryland. Then, with a solid base in studio art, he attended the National Autonomous University of Mexico, receiving a masters' degree (MFA) in visual arts in 2023. For the last 10 years, he has been producing artwork in several media and exhibiting in various venues, including the Sarah Silberman Art Gallery, the Glenview Mansion, the World Bank's atrium, and, lately, at various Ch/Art exhibitions and ArtWalk.

Rockville Art League member Barbara Rose will be offering the following classes at VisArts. Please sign up early to make sure the class runs. Scholarships are available! All materials are provided, but you are welcome to bring suitable media.
